CALGARY'S BUILDING MAINTENANCE BYLAW

WHAT YOU NEED TO KNOW

A new bylaw comes into effect in Calgary on January 1, 2017.

It requires owners to regularly assess and maintain the exterior of their buildings that are five or more storeys tall. The new Building Maintenance Bylaw is an effort to protect Calgarians from the hazards of falling debris from buildings. The bylaw will address hazards on Calgary's oldest buildings first in a phased approach, but eventually all of Calgary's 584+ buildings over five storeys will need to be reviewed and further action may be required.

Entuitive is a structural engineering and building envelope consulting practice bringing together engineering and intuition to enhance building performance. It's our collective ability to simplify the complex that makes us who we are. We are Entuitive.

Topics covered will include:

- What should a visual review entail?
- Who's qualified to complete the visual review?
- When does the review need to be completed by?
- What further actions may be required?
